Political Activity

- 6.1. Cambian recognises the right of employees to hold political opinions and to take part in political activity in their own time, it also recognises that politics is a subject on which individuals hold many different views. It is therefore, the Company's policy that employees may not take part in any type of political activity while at work, during work time, on work premises, or use any of the Company's resources to do so.

- 6.2. The Company's aim is to provide a working environment in which all staff feel comfortable and in which everyone is treated with respect and dignity.
- 6.3. The Company's policy is therefore that colleagues, visitors, suppliers and service users should not be exposed to employees' personal political views at any time.
- 6.4. The Company recognises that activity of this nature may take place outside of work however, employees should not conduct themselves in a way that could be detrimental to the Company or its reputation. Such activity must not:
 - 6.4.1. Interfere in any way with the work of the employee or the Company.
 - 6.4.2. Bring, or risk bringing, the Company's name into disrepute.
 - 6.4.3. Take place on any Company premises.
 - 6.4.4. Involve any criminal activity or behaviour.

Work related social events

- 6.5. Although such social events usually take place away from the workplace and outside of normal working hours, the organisation's standard code of conduct applies to such events.
- 6.6. It is in everyone's interests to impose certain rules of conduct for the protection and comfort of all. Specifically, employees who attend work-related social events must adhere to the following rules and principles:
 - 6.6.1. It is strictly forbidden for any employee to use or carry illegal drugs, including cannabis at any time, including at any work-related social event whether on Company premises or not.

 - 6.6.5. Employees must not behave in any way or take any action at any time, including at a work-related social event, that could bring the Company's name into disrepute.
- 6.7. Any breach of the above rules will render the employee liable to disciplinary action under the Company's disciplinary procedure, up to and including summary dismissal.
- 6.8. The above rules are in place for the benefit of all employees and to ensure that everyone can enjoy work-related social events in an atmosphere of conviviality without fear of being made to feel uncomfortable by another employee's conduct.
- 6.9. For the avoidance of doubt these principles apply to all social activity related to work including self-organised team events.

Personal relationships at work

The Company recognises that employees who work together may form personal friendships and, in some cases, close personal relationships. While it does not wish to interfere with these personal relationships, it is necessary to ensure that all employees behave in an appropriate and professional manner at work. The following principles have therefore been devised, and apply to all employees regardless of their job or level of seniority.

- 6.10. Any employee who develops a close personal relationship with another employee, must declare this relationship with their Manager at the first available opportunity.
- 6.11. Any employee who is involved in a close personal relationship with another employee or contractor, must not allow that relationship to influence their conduct while at work.
- 6.12. Intimate behaviour during work time, for example kissing, touching, holding hands, or sexual contact of any kind is expressly prohibited.
- 6.13. This rule applies during all working time, whether at the normal workplace, or elsewhere. Any breach of this rule will be regarded as a disciplinary offence leading to disciplinary action.
- 6.14. An employee who embarks on a close personal relationship with a colleague must declare the relationship to their manager even if they feel that this is a casual relationship.
- 6.15. If the relationship is between a Senior member of staff or Manager and an employee whom they supervise, the relationship should be declared to a more senior Manager. The information declared will be treated with strict confidence.
- 6.16. To avoid a situation in which an employee has Managerial authority over another with whom they have a close personal relationship, the Company reserves the right to elect to transfer one or both of the employees in the relationship to another location/department, and if appropriate under different line management. In these circumstances, the Company will consult both of the employees and seek to reach a satisfactory agreement regarding the transfer of one or both of them.

Criminal offences

- 6.17. An employee must inform their Manager immediately where an allegation is made regarding them and/or they are under investigation for a criminal act (including road traffic offences), or they have been arrested in connection with a criminal action. - 6.18. Failure to disclose this information may lead to disciplinary action under the Company's disciplinary procedure, up to and including summary dismissal.
- 6.19. If an employee commits a criminal offence outside employment, the Company reserves the right to investigate the matter to ascertain whether there is any connection between the offence and the employee's employment, and the impact of this situation. If there is any adverse finding in this respect, this could result in disciplinary action under the Company's disciplinary procedure, up to and including summary dismissal.

- 6.20. It is the responsibility of every employee, regardless of position, to promote inclusivity and diversity. The Company seeks to ensure that the workplace is supportive of its staff and one where individual respect is

This would be considered to be a breach of the Company Code of Conduct for employees.
