War Horse

Although this isn't on my reading roster right now, War Horse is a book I will always return to. War Horse follows the story of a young boy named Albert and his beloved horse, Joey, set during World War I. Albert trains Joey, and they form a deep bond. However, Joey is sold to the British army and sent to the front lines in France.

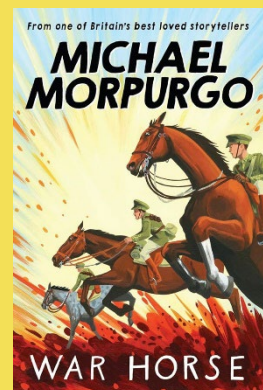

As the war progresses, Joey experiences the harsh realities of battle, changing hands between British and German soldiers. Meanwhile, Albert enlists in the army, determined to find Joey. I won't tell you any more than that (spoilers!), but I will tell you that the last page is absolutely covered in tear stains.

You know a book is good when it gets transformed into both film and theatre. The stage production of this book is an unforgettable experience of skilful puppetry. The more you watch, the more you forget that the puppets in front of you are not real horses.

Michael Morpurgo does have other books where animals take the spotlight, such as 'The Nine Lives of Montezuma'. If you're an animal lover, Michael Morpurgo will surely have a book that will captivate you, break your heart, and then offer you words that will stitch you back together again.

18.06.2025 – Cadbury World Trip

The primary students had a fantastic day out at Cadbury World, where they explored the exciting 4D cinema experience and many other fun activities. The visit was part of their learning in December, when they read Charlie and the Chocolate Factory in class. To bring their reading to life and consolidate their understanding, they learned about the real history of Cadbury and how chocolate is made. CNES staff were highly supportive, making the trip a memorable experience.

19.06.2025 – Enterprise Day

As part of our annual Enterprise Day, all pupils across the Key Stages participated in being taught by a group of newly qualified PGCE teachers from Worcester University.

Pupils developed and practiced their maths skills based on budgeting, savings and business. Our pupils did very well in developing their social skills and working with new faces. A big highlight for pupils was being able to play football at break and lunch with our visitors.
