

European Day of Languages Friday 26th September 2025

Today our students celebrated European Day of Languages in school and the main aim of the day was to show our students the variety of different languages spoken in Europe.

Our students completed lots of different activities celebrating the diverse range of languages we have on the European Continent and to promote the importance of language learning and intercultural understanding.

Some students read French comic books – Bande Dessinee

Students created map of Europe which they painted different landmarks across the European Cities onto. This gave them a wider understanding of different countries and their famous landmarks.

The students also wrote “hello” in a number of different European Languages onto the European Union Flag. This has given the languages classroom an amazing display and showcased the many different greetings the students had learned during the day.
