Welcome

"I am proud to work at the Cambian New Elizabethan School, let alone have the honour and privilege of being the Head Teacher.

Since September 2014 the school has been on an incredible journey, successfully seeing improved facilities and growing in numbers. We are very proud of our 'Good' Ofsted report from November 2017. We are now on our journey to, what we hope will be, an 'Outstanding' rating in our next inspection. However, for me that is not the main thrust of what we are about as a school; it is about having a happy, vibrant and safe environment that ensures positive outcomes for all students. Cambian New Elizabethan School is well placed to meet the needs of students aged 7 to 19 years with communication difficulties, including those with an ASC and other associated conditions.

Cambian New Elizabethan School provides a personalised curriculum which is designed to meet the needs of individual students, providing them with the right support mechanisms to ensure that they can succeed socially, emotionally and academically.

Students are provided with a diverse range of learning experiences in small teaching groups. Our lessons are delivered by well qualified and experienced teachers and assistants following the National Curriculum. Students are given opportunities for individualised support. This involves access to a qualified clinical team including: onsite Speech and Language Therapy, Occupational Therapy, Psychology and Mental Health Support which helps us to ensure positive outcomes for all students.

All students leave with a range of qualifications. This includes GCSEs, BTECs and other nationally recognised awards including OCN, NCFE and ASDAN which gives students opportunities for completing work based learning. For some students, we recognise that attending school, managing relationships positively and working with others can present tremendous difficulties. However, our trained staff team can help with these difficulties, assisting students to be able to adapt and succeed beyond education and have meaningful and fulfilling lives within society. All of our natural leavers go on to destinations such as colleges of further education; many have the potential to attend and complete university courses. We have a dedicated post-16 study centre where a range of pathway choices will be available for all students. The school is highly skilled at meeting individual needs and we work very hard to support a diverse range of needs and difficulties.

We understand that choosing the right school for your child can be a difficult decision and to support with this process, we encourage you to visit by appointment to find out more about our school and decide if it is the best available for your child. We have access to Parent Liaison Officers within the wider Cambian Group and a Family Support Worker based within the school who can offer further support and guidance about choosing the right school and getting the correct internal and external support for your child. We always extend a warm welcome to all our visitors and this would provide a good opportunity to look at our school, meet some students and staff, as well as find answers to those questions that are perhaps not as easily answered in a prospectus.

I look forward to meeting you in the near future."

Achieving Meaningful Progress

Our students make good progress in all aspects of learning, whether social, emotional, behavioural or academic.

Personalised approach

Some of our students are gifted in certain subjects or have a talent which needs to be nurtured if their skills are to be built upon and enjoyment for learning harnessed. We provide the support and specialist teaching necessary for students to sit qualifications early if appropriate.

In Key Stage 2 we have a primary approach to our learning. The teachers who work with the students focus on different subject areas. The emphasis is on engagement, literacy, numeracy and creativity. Assessment and tracking will relate back to the national curriculum progression guidance.

This continues through Key Stage 3 also, ensuring that students have a broad and balanced curriculum and, if appropriate, are ready to access Level 1 and 2 qualifications, including GCSEs during Key Stage 4. By Key Stage 5, many students are ready to progress to Level 3 study, which could include qualifications from the A level family.

Life skills

All students are taught life skills, as well as being prepared for life beyond school, whether that continues at college, university, as an apprentice or in the workplace. Students are supported with identifying appropriate next steps, at Key Stage 4 and 5 (post-16).

Our Environment

Pupil Centred

Set in large, private grounds amid a campus of historic buildings in rural Hartlebury, Worcestershire.

The environment at the school is structured, stable and secure, with well planned timetables and routines aimed at reducing anxiety and confusion, whilst supporting decision making and awareness of potential risks and dangers.

The school offers a range of well equipped classroom facilities, designed to meet the needs of the students across the age of seven to nineteen years. Our learners are based in age appropriate environments and we further benefit by having an amazing amount of outdoor space, which our students are actively encouraged to utilise.

Our building facilities are historic, interesting and varied. In Lower School we have four classrooms and five individual learning pods in which our students can access 1:1 learning as required.

The main school building is home to the bulk of our secondary age students where the classrooms are located along corridors and adjacent to our historic school hall, which is the heart of our school and plays a multi-faceted role being our dining room, assembly hall and indoor PE facility.

We also have three separate blocks: The boathouse, which is where our therapeutic staff are based and conduct some of their sessions. The Art & Design Technology room which is located in a separate block along with our meeting facilities and finally our fabulous well equipped Food Technology Classroom and Post-16 hub situated next our recently developed sensory garden.

Students will predominantly stay in the same block during the day, however do transition around the school to access the specialist facilities such as art, design technology and sport.

We recognise that not all of our students are natural academics; however, we firmly believe that they all have the potential to flourish, given the right support, curriculum and encouragement. In order to do this our students have a variety of choice and learning opportunities available to them.

Transition Pathway

We focus on developing education, life and vocational skills that support a successful transition into adulthood.

Community Links

Opportunities In and Out of School

Community activities, help our students work as part of team, co-operating with students of different ages and abilities to enhance their learning experience.

Cambian New Elizabethan School provides opportunities for students to access a range of provisions, including small animal care, the local countryside, libraries, places of worship, art galleries and sports facilities such as the local swimming pool. We have strong links with Kidderminster College, Worcester University and Abberley Care Farm.

Learning in an environment other than school, helps to boost the confidence of some of our students, preparing them for different scenarios and challenges. We encourage our students to take part in many activities. Every Friday we have planned activities for the whole school. The theme for this varies weekly and includes curriculum themes, PSHCE topics and sporting activities to support local and national charities. Sports fixtures are played against local schools.

Cambian New Elizabethan School is at the heart of our local community. It is continuing to forge excellent links with local business and leisure facilities offering work experience, learning opportunities and life skills.

Jane's Story

When we first met Jane

Jane was previously in mainstream school until the placement broke down. She was then home schooled and supported 1:1 by the Medical Education Team to attend teaching sessions at a teaching centre. Jane remained home-schooled until she joined Cambian New Elizabethan School.

When Jane came to Cambian New Elizabethan School

Jane initially joined us on a part time basis slowly building up to attending full days. Jane's anxiety began to heighten; she sat with staff to adapt her timetable to include some learning breaks and some creative activities which would help to relax her.

Jane's care

A year ago, Jane was off timetable, the aim was to try to get her to come into school more and feel safe here. Jane would refuse to come into school and would often refuse to get out of the car. Staff implemented sessions throughout the week where Jane could do relaxing tasks like colouring, reading and playing Bananagrams. Along with intensive support from our Mental Health Practitioner, this helped alleviate Jane's anxieties. Staff worked closely with home to monitor triggers for Jane and as such, staff have since been able to create successful strategies to help Jane educationally, socially and emotionally.

Today

Today, Jane regularly attends school and accesses a full timetable. She is now able to tell staff if she is finding something difficult and will accept strategies offered to her. When Jane is feeling anxious, several strategies have been put in place to support her. Jane will now access the community by attending small class trips. This is something Jane had refused to do within school before as she was very reluctant to leave the house.

What is the future like for Jane?

Jane will be choosing her options for GCSE and further qualifications at the end of this academic year and is already beginning to discuss her ideas. Jane also hopes to enrol in a college after her GCSE's where she would like to study Animal Care and Theatrical Make-Up.

John's Story

When we first met John

John had difficulty taking in new information and found it hard to concentrate as he tried to make sense of the world around him. He was unable to keep up with others and his feelings of frustration would make him angry and physically aggressive.

When John came to Cambian New Elizabethan School

John was diagnosed with Aspergers. He worried about how he was different to others and worried about how others viewed him. As such he would sometimes choose poor behaviours and get involved with the other young people when it was not necessary.

John's care

With a consistent team of supporters around him, John learnt to trust others and to discover his potential. He managed to follow a full timetable and began to engage in his lessons. John also began to socialise with other students.

John learnt to cope with his anger and frustration and to see situations in a different way. He began to feel calmer, more confident and was soon happily taking the lead. John was very willing to help other students whether it be showing them around or helping out in lessons.

In his final year with Cambian New Elizabethan, John was able to access the School Therapy Team to discuss his personal life and to learn how to handle his feelings. He developed the self-confidence to stretch and push himself; he was able to concentrate for long periods of time.

John began boxing; this further strengthened his focus and determination. He also received the School Award for the most improved student and a bursary from the Hartlebury Old Elizabethan's Society.

Today

John has become a great role model for his peers, as he is confident, positive and motivated.

John has achieved many qualifications such as Level 1 in Maths and Level 2 in English, ICT and food technology. These enabled him to secure a place at a sixth form college where he is studying Sports, putting his people skills and determination into practice. John has completed his first amateur boxing bout and is now learning to drive a car.

What is the future like for John?

John has settled in to college and is aspiring to be a sports teacher or coach while continuing his boxing. He pops in to visit us now and again to tell us how well he is doing, and to share his success

Libby's Story

When we first met Libby

In the years before joining Cambian New Elizabethan, Libby suffered with chronic anxiety. This anxiety was over-powering and prevented her from being able to learn in a classroom with other students. Libby also had sensory issues which meant accessing any learning in a mainstream environment was challenging for her. She found that the noise, smells and sheer number of people in a school was overwhelming and this led to her feeling physically sick. This resulted in Libby being home schooled for a number of years.

When Libby came to Cambian New Elizabethan School

When Libby first arrived, she was extremely anxious and shy. She would find it difficult to communicate her emotions and feelings to anyone at the school. This resulted in her concealing her anxieties and sensitivities until they reached a significantly heightened level.

Libby's care

It was vital that we initially helped Libby develop mechanisms to help manage her anxiety. We did this through therapeutic work with our clinical team and attending both group and 1:1 sessions. Although a year 7 student, Libby started with us by spending a year with a lower school class mainly consisting of year 5 and 6 pupils, which provided a more nurturing environment for her. Libby found this less intimidating than being around peers her own age, and it allowed her time to build up her confidence and gain some excellent coping skills. When coupled with close communication with Libby parents, we were able to create an environment that was ideal for Libby to grow and flourish.

Today

Libby is currently in her first year of GCSE's. She is doing incredibly well both in school and at home and has achieved things that only a few years ago she would have said would be impossible. For example she had a main role in last year's Christmas play. Libby also read her Remembrance Day poem to the whole school. She delivered a presentation to some senior members of Cambian when they came in to visit the school, as well as delivering a presentation in assembly as part of her school council role. Libby has expressed herself, just how much more relaxed and confident she feels. Libby is now accessing all of the learning opportunities available at school and is predicted to do well in her GCSE's next year.

Matilda's Story

When we first met Matilda

Matilda had always felt very unsettled in main stream school. The constant change in routine, the unpredictability of the classroom environment and the transition between classes often resulted in frustrated, angry outbursts. The lack of understanding of Matilda's need for structure and routine and her inability to communicate her needs to others led to her placement failing.

When Matilda came to Cambian New Elizabethan School

Matilda came to us as a very anxious and angry 11 year old. She had developed a need for control which was detrimental to herself and those around her. It became evident quickly that she was mistrusting of her peers and staff. Matilda was unable to eat her lunch in the company of others and intolerant of anything that caused a change to her routine.

Matilda's care

When Matilda first joined Cambian New Elizabethan she spent a lot of time working independently with a member of staff away from a classroom environment re- building her confidence and introducing strategies to help with her need for control. Gaps in Matilda's educational knowledge were bridged using a teaching format that Matilda felt comfortable with. Slowly on her own terms, Matilda was reintroduced to a classroom environment. Having a set staff team helped Matilda feel more relaxed at school and slowly but surely Matilda's funny, kind and exuberant personality emerged to the absolute delight of those around her.

Today

Matilda is now a confident, chatty and witty 15 year old. She is a well-known face around school and will find time to stop and tell you a joke or ask you about your day. She loves to show visitors around and has overcome many of her anxieties. This has helped her come on leaps and bounds both educationally and socially. Access arrangements have been put in place for Matilda to sit her GCSE's, she now spends more and more time with others and celebrates full school life on her terms. Matilda has strategies to use when she feels anxious and has been encouraged to embrace her eccentricities.

What is the future like for Matilda?

So Bright! Matilda now feels confident enough in her own abilities that she is able to vocalise appropriately when she needs something and what strategy she can use to help her. She is now attending holidays abroad with her family and going on school reward trips that she earns through her own hard work and commitment. We expect Matilda to continue into sixth form and build on the amazing creative skills that she has found in art and aooking. The excellent relationship and communication between school and home combined with the common goal of providing Matilda with what she needs as she transitions into adulthood, means that the future for her is looking incredibly bright!

Barry's Story

When we first met Barry

Barry had a negative experience at his previous school and in his opinion was misunderstood. We recall him being insular and struggling to make and keep friendships.

When Barry came to Cambian New Elizabethan School

He recalled incidents of isolation and loneliness. When he came to us he was a very angry boy who couldn't control his emotions and would disengage easily. This had a huge impact on his learning and self esteem.

Barry's care

It became apparent that Barry would take everything literally which he often found confusing and frustrating and therefore could not comprehend instruction. After implementing a personalised learning plan and employing strategies to support him, a gradual improvement became imminent.

Today

Barry has matured into a polite, conscientious young man who has great aspirations for his future. He strives to meet all expectations and additionally he will seek out extension work and also support his peers in their learning.

He is fully involved in all aspects of school life and is a role model for other students.

Above all he is on track to fulfil his dream of entering the catering industry and having an illustrious career working with food.

What is the future like for Barry?

Barry's future is looking very positive, if he continues along the path that he has begun to travel, there is no doubt he will become successful in his chosen career.
