FINE BEDDING

The boys in the Willows recently chose new bedding from a company called The Fine Bedding Company who pride themselves on their sustainably responsible practices. You can read their story here. The lightweight fibre filled Night Owl duvets come with their own soft cover and can be easily put into the washing machine. All of them chose Aurora Green and they even come in their own reusable duffle bag!

Meanwhile, in the Oaks ...

"Here in the Oaks home we have embraced having our new wheat straw plates, mugs and bowls. The plates are just the right size and come in nice colours so we can match them with our mugs or bowls. Once we have finished they are easy to stack and are light to carry and if we drop one by accident they are really strong too so they won't break.

The best thing about our new plates, bowls and mugs though is that they are made from wheat straw. Wheat straw is a by-product of the wheat harvest and would otherwise go to waste, instead of this going to waste or being burnt in the fields, it has been turned into a natural, clean, incredibly practical and good-looking part of our expanding range of eat wear we are building upon in the home."
