

Horticulture at Brook View School

02.05.24

Here at Brook View School we are teaching our young people about growing plants from seeds, either for the sight, feel or smell. We are also teaching them an independent life skill which encourages them to grow their own fruit and vegetables.

Growing seeds with young people is a simple process that offers so many learning opportunities for them, from using their fine motor skills, improving concentration, hand eye coordination, as well as, patience.

It can have the potential to be a lifetime interest, which could lead to employment.
