Wisbech school staff and students took part in Jeans for Genes week.

Jeans for Genes day/week is a UK-based fundraising event where schools, workplaces, and community groups wear jeans in exchange for a donation to support Genetic Disorders UK. The money raised funds projects that provide specialist nurses, equipment, and support for children and families affected by life-altering genetic disorders.

We also had a class assembly about genealogy and what that means.

There were lots of discussions throughout the day about hair colour, eye colour and how our DNA is uniquely ours.

Quotes:

DNA is so interesting!

Why are we raising awareness? People have different genes!

Wearing jeans to school
feels weird!
