

Building Friendships in Wyre Class

This week in Wyre class we have been developing our shared play and turn-taking skills.

Play-based activities have allowed us to develop our communication, attention, empathy and build friendships. We have been building marble runs, making towers of blocks, taking turns on the interactive whiteboard and helping each other to follow a recipe.

This has helped us to build supportive friendships and help each other in PE, during transitions and in accessing daily routines.

The learners have all been kind, supportive, patient and friends to each other. We are incredibly proud of them.
