Description of trip: Another week, another walk ticked off. We stomped along the path from Castle Rising to North Wootton chatting and enjoying being outside in the fresh air. It was so lovely and peaceful. Once we arrived in the village of North Wootton we explored the village, stopping at the old phone box, which is full of books. You can take an old book and exchange it for a new one. We thought this was such a good idea. One pupil decided to do some of his key read in the phone box. We stopped and had a snack on the bench overlooking the daffodils and then made our way back through the village and along the path once again. It is lovely to walk each week, especially with the weather being much warmer. We managed to complete 3.4 miles. We know we worked hard as on the journey home we all decided to sit in silence as we were so tired. Thank you Cambian!

Quotes:

"You could do key read in the phone box."

"How many miles have we walked?"

"The daffodils are beautiful."
